

PRINCE GEORGE'S HOSPITAL CENTER

Sue Lake

Morrison Vice President of Operations for UMMS System

As a VPO, Sue has operational responsibility for a 50 million dollar budget managing Food Nutrition Services. Sue brings 27 years of operational expertise in healthcare and a clinical dietetics background. She has extensive experience with patient satisfaction initiatives, fiscal responsibility, kitchen design and renovation projects as well. Her experience also includes national programming in Wellness. Sue received a Bachelor of Science degree in Dietetics from Indiana University of PA.

Marvin Denson

Regional Director of Operations

Marvin's career in food and nutrition spans over 27 years. He has worked in various positions including catering and production manager, director of food and nutrition services, and most recently, regional director of dining operations. He specializes in dietary management, diversity leadership, quality assurance, and client relationship building. Marvin holds a B.S. in Hotel, Restaurant, and Institutional Management from Indiana University of PA and a MBA in Business Management from Strayer University. In his free time, he is an executive coach, board member for a non-profit, and avid writer. Marvin and his wife Michele look forward to celebrating 25 years of marriage in 2021.

Barry Perrin

Director of Food and Nutritional Services

A graduate of Rutgers University, Barry has held an array of food service operational positions. Recently, he led the team that open Food Services for the new George Washington University Hospital. He also works in consulting for various institutions. Barry enjoys working in his yard, when not at work, and promises himself he will start playing golf again, soon.

PRINCE GEORGE'S HOSPITAL CENTER

Reynaldo Portugal Retail Manager

Reynaldo has provided managerial support and supervision in the foodservice industry for many years. He most recently worked as a healthcare foodservice retail and catering manager, responsible for the unit's marketing, cash management, and for the training of staff members. Reynaldo specializes in increasing employee retention and forging stronger relationships with team members and guests. When he's not at work, Reynaldo enjoys acts of service to those in need and traveling around the USA.

Marcus Pierre Executive Chef

Classically trained in French technique by world-renowned "Le Cordon Bleu," Chef Marcus considers himself a fusion-style chef with a love of blending cultures together. He's experienced all aspects of the culinary industry, from fine-dining country clubs to high-profile private clients. Chef Marcus prefers to spend most of his free time engaging in outdoor activities such as kayaking and horseback riding. When not enjoying the outdoors, a lot of time is spent enjoying music concerts and quality meals created by local chefs.

PRINCE GEORGE'S HOSPITAL CENTER

Julia Damp
Clinical Nutrition Manager

Julia received her Bachelor of Science degree in Hospitality Management from University of Central Florida, and a Bachelor of Science degree in Dietetics and Nutrition from Keiser University in Lakeland, FL. A Certified Nutrition Support Clinician, Julia began her career with nutrition in a long-term care facility before transitioning to acute inpatient care, where she's been for the past 4 years. She has extensive knowledge in critical care with advanced certification in nutrition support. Julia has been married to her husband since 2011 and together, they have two dogs, Alvin and Aubrey. She enjoys reading, eating out (pizza is my favorite), and watching movies.

Emelia Stiverson
Clinical Dietitian

Emelia received her Master of Science degree in Nutrition from Teachers College, Columbia University. She started her career as a Registered Dietitian working at The New Jewish Home in New York City. She then moved back to her hometown in Maryland where she spent the last 4 years working as the sole Dietitian at Cadia Healthcare of Annapolis. During the past year she has also been working as a Consulting Dietitian for BayWoods of Annapolis. She is Nutrition Wound Care Certified and is currently studying for the Certified Nutrition Support Clinician exam. Emelia enjoys taking care of her 1-year-old Lhasa Apso dog named Camden and keeping in touch with her family and friends. She is a fan of NFL football and also likes to watch shows on Netflix, cook and eat good food, and exercise.

PRINCE GEORGE’S HOSPITAL CENTER

Rosiland Dantzler
Patient Services Manager

Rosiland holds a Bachelor’s degree in HRIM from Indiana University of PA. She has worked in a variety of foodservice roles, including as a Safe Serve Prep instructor. Healthcare is truly her passion and she looks forward to joining the UMMS team. Rosiland has a beautiful Tabby cat named Tongee, is an avid gardener of flowers and herbs, and volunteers at Hands Helping Others in her free time.

Tierre Jones
Patient Services Supervisor

Tierre, an experienced food service supervisor, is proficient in handling complex customer issues and promoting positive experiences. A native of Memphis, TN, Tierre was previously responsible for the daily operation of The National School Breakfast and Lunch Program in a school cafeteria. She recently obtained her degree in criminal justice and has a passion for helping people in her free time. She is a sister of 11 siblings and enjoys reading and streaming television shows on Netflix.